

Meeting of the Minds

Create an engaging, productive workplace culture

Without self-aware employees, high-performing teams and a positive culture, your organization will experience challenges in communication, collaboration, productivity and employee retention.

Through the Meeting of the Minds, employees are empowered to use their strengths to achieve their potential and organizations are given the tools to maximize performance and create positive cultures.

Workshop Results

After attending an Emergenetics Meeting of the Minds, positive change happens. A recent survey found:

More than 80% of attendees gain enhanced self-awareness.

Nearly 70% of attendees report improved working relationships.

Over 60% of attendees experienced better collaboration.

After every workshop, attendees walk away with:

- An understanding of their own strengths and the talents of others
- Knowledge of how their Emergenetics® Profile impacts the workplace
- Strategies to enhance communication and collaboration
- Tools to improve outcomes through the power of cognitive diversity

Who should attend a Meeting of the Minds?

The Meeting of the Minds is designed for leaders, managers and individual contributors as well as intact teams and broader employee groups who are interested in:

- Gaining self-awareness
- Developing leadership and managerial skills
- Communicating more productively
- Strengthening collaboration and team development
- Learning to problem solve more effectively

Time Well Spent

Designed for adult learning and led by a certified facilitator, the program's content is simple to understand, immediately applicable, engaging and entertaining.

Participants take part in a series of activities designed to ensure retention and application in the workplace and will:

- Explore the science and seven Attributes of the Emergenetics Profile.
- Discover their personal Thinking and Behavioral preferences.
- Find new ways to interact and collaborate with others.
- Uncover a common language that unifies teams and company cultures.
